WINTER HOUSE PARTIES WILL ENLIVEN WEEK

Only Three Crowds to Participate in Party Which Replaces Carnival of Last Year

PROGRAM FULL

Sigs, Psi Us, and Chi Psis Will Play Hosts on Hill

This weekend winter house parties will hold sway in three houses, the Sig, Psi U and Chi Psi. After the disappointing experience of last year's winter carnival, these three crowds were the only ones willing to risk the possibility of another fiasco. However, prospects are bright for a very successful affair on Friday, Saturday and Sunday of this week. Besides the usual dances, the weekend will be enlivened by a basketball game with Oberlin, and a hockey game with Amherst. A sleigh ride is planned by the Chi Psis, after festivities end on Saturday evening.

The dances, which will consist of formals on both Friday and Saturday evenings and a tea dance at the Chi Psi Lodge on Saturday afternoon from 4 to 6, will all be closed except by special invitation. This rule was made necessary because of the small number of parties. Following is a list of the guests at each house:

Sigma Phi: Patronesses, Mrs. Sicard, Mrs. Hudson; Misses Margaret Brewer, Utica; Louise Osborne, New York; Marjorie Laughlin, Waterford; Dorothea Villard, New York; Virginia Eller, Buffalo; Katharine Salmon, Seattle; Glover Van Cott, Brooklyn; Florence Armstrong, Buffalo; Catherine Keith, Clinton; Caroline Keyes, Concord, Mass.; Mary Davis, Chestnut Hill, Pa.; Lydia Garrison, West Orange, N. J.; Mary Rayburn, Utica. Orchestra: Vin Berney, New York.

Psi Upsilon: Patronesses, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Slauson; Misses Marion Roberts, Utica; Florence Ingle, Rochester; Gertrude Meyer, Utica; Constance Reilly, Schenectady; Jane Brownell and Helen Doyle, Utica; Lizette Handy, Ithaca; Betty Haverford, Wells; Louise Rexford, St. Louis; Dorothy Madden, Utica; Frances Stewart, Wells; Margaret Conley, Ithaca; Jean Alter, Wells; Mary MacDougall, Gloversville; Ruth Stone, Binghamton; Winifred Coburn, Rochester; Ruth Keator, Ithaca. Orchestra, Morgan's Collegians.

Chi Psi: Patronesses, Mrs. C. K. Gilbert, Mrs. L. C. Payne; Misses Rose Minster, Canajoharie; Kathryn Farrell, Schenectady; Mary Burdick, Clinton; Elizabeth Sarles, Liberty; Elisabeth Young, Binghamton; Katherine Doyle, Binghamton; Dorothy Drakeley, Penn Yan; Margaret Mc Cready, Pelham Manor; Mary Hewins, Worcester, Mass.; Marion Brand, Stamford, Conn.; Isabelle Williams, Clinton; Anne Bookhout, Albany; Moria Lockwood, New York; Helen Mann, Pelham Manor; Betty Kelling, Jessica MacRae, New York; Eleanor Fahey, Syracuse; Evelyn Osterman, Elizabeth, N. J. Orchestra: Jimmie Da, Corning.

HAMILTON NOT ENTIRELY RESPONSIBLE, SAYS ALEX

In an interview recently printed in the Princetonian, undergraduate publication of Princton University, Alexander Woollcott, '09, is quoted as saying, "My own college was Hamilton and if you tell me you never heard of it you can go to hell. For many years before Elihu Root became widely known as its most illustrious alumnus that post was occupied in the public eye by Alonzo Whiteman. Lon Whiteman was easily the most adroit, the most expert, and the most brilliant forger this country has ever produced. Yet I have always felt that Hamilton was wrong in its naive boast that this reflected high honor on its classes in penmanship. I think that Whiteman might have been as celebrated even if he had gone to Colgate. Or even if he had never gone to college at all."

—Arthur Bullard, '03, former New York newspaper man, who was Chief of the Russian Division on Public Information, State Department, during the Wilson administration, has been appointed Assistant Director of the Information Section of the League of Nations.

EVENLY MATCHED

The sport-thirsty public will rejoice to know that an athletic encounter of true championship dimensions—a rare article at Hamilton—is billed for next Friday evening in the Soper Gymnasium when Hamilton and Oberlin will battle to retain their subterranean positions in the collegiate basketball world. Despite a close call at Hobart last week, Hamilton has yet to break into the winning column, while last minute advices from Oberlin state that the Ohio quintet has been successful in maintaining its 100% losing record.

SYRACUSE BOWS TO HAMILTON SKATERS

Varsity and Freshman Sextets Win Handily from Orange

Last Saturday night led by Captain "Gil" Van Vleet and "Red" Bald, the Hamilton varsity sextet sent the Syracuse ice men back home on the short end of a 4-0 score. Better skating and handling of the stick brought victory to Hamilton.

The first period was close from beginning to end. Both teams took turns rushing the puck to their opponents' goal, only to lose it before a shot could be made. The speed which had marked the opening of the game had slackened considerably by the end of the period, and the bell rang, bringing to a close the scoreless period.

The second period opened with a rush and "Red" Bald slipped thru the entire Orange defense for a goal. Five minutes later MacLean succeeded in shooting the puck past the Syracuse goalie.

Throughout the entire second period Bald and Van Vleet cleverly fooled the opposing line and kept the play in the region of the Syracuse goal.

In the third period Syracuse, feeling themselves beaten, began to rough up the game, and consequently drew many penalties. Again Bald carried the puck unassisted through the Orange team and scored Hamilton's goal with a clever shot. Before the crowd had stopped cheering, Captain Van Vleet had boosted the score one point more. The gong sounded ending the game with Hamilton on the victorious end of a 4-0 score.

The feature of the game was the clever stickwork of Van Vleet and Bald. Gray played the best for the visitors.

In a preliminary contest the Hamilton frosh whitewashed the Syracuse frosh 7-2. Thompson and Ingalls starred for Hamilton.

CHARLATANS TO PRESENT PLAYS BEFORE WELLS CLUB

The Charlatans are to appear next on Wednesday evening, Mar. 17, in Utica's New Centry Auditorium under the auspices of the Wells College Club of that city. The two plays which will be given at that time are "The Cat and the Cherub" and "Crow's Nest." The business connected with the performance is to be in charge of the Wells College Club, and any profits will go to it.

The "Crow's Nest" is one of the Harvard Prize Plays. It is a one-act play with elaborate scenic effects. All the action takes place in the small crow's nest, or look-out, high up on the mast of a large ship. The Charlatans have not started work on this play as yet but tryouts will be held soon to fill the cast.

Work is progressing on "The Cat and the Cherub." The cast is as follows: Wing Shee, the leading role, Coburn Proctor Goodwin; Chin Fang, Clarence E. Olmsted; Hoo King, George E. Tyler; Wing Sun Luey, Frank H. Robson, Jr.; Ah Yoi, Reginald M. Sheu; Hwah Kwee, Edwin E. Clark; Hoo Chee, Henry K. A. Yuan.

Five hundred and eighty people packed the vestibule of the Utica Public Library on Wednesday evening, Jan. 27, to see the Charlatans present Lord Dunsany's "A Night at an Inn." Probably nothing the Charlatans have produced in Utica has been so much appreciated as this play. Absolute silence reigned throughout the performance and after the curtain fell, applause was long and hearty. The production was given as a part Utica. The cast was the same one that appeared in Commons earlier in the of the program of Drama Week in winter.

Writer Attacks Investigating Committee's Report as Unfair

B. Frederic Skinner Comes to Support of Editor and Managers of 1926 Hamiltonian—Characterizes Investigation as an Implication of Dishonesty—Complete Report of Investigating Committee Also Printed.

Editor's Note: The following communication deals with a subject upon which, heretofore, Life has maintained a discreet silence. Believing, however, that nothing can be gained by further silence, inasmuch as the feasibility of publishing future Hamiltonians may depend upon the action of the senior class, we are printing both the communication and the report which caused its writing.

To the Editor of Hamilton Life:

Will you give me space to comment on the recent 1926 Hamiltonian tax?

In the first place, it is obvious that strong personal feeling played a part in the "investigation." Stanley's motion to appoint an investigating committee could have meant one of two things only: First, that he, and the seniors whom he represented, wanted more information about the expenses (which is not the whole truth, since, if it were, the normal thing to do would be to ask for a more detailed report); or second, that he accused Chase, the editor, and Comstock, the manager, of actual dishonesty and graft. The class voted to appoint the committee, not because it shared as a whole any feeling that there was graft involved, but because the motion provided (in a clumsy and discourteous fashion) for some more detailed explanation of the deficit. It is natural for men who are asked to pay six dollars each to be curious about the reason; but, they might have gone at it by simply inquiry, rather than by a pompous investigation which implied dishonesty on the part of the editor and manager.

The committee investigated. It found after going over the books that all the money taken in could be accounted for. It discovered no indication whatever that any person connected with the publication had profited in any way. In other words there was absolutely no graft. Not only that, but, it is understood that the committee decided that Chase should be especially commended for his efforts, since at his own expense in time and money, he had brought about a $250 reduction in the total debt of the class. When the report was made, however, Holley, as chairman, implied that laxity on the part of Chase was a contributing cause for the deficit. He cited one instance only: that Chase had neglected to forward pictures to the engravers in time to secure discount. The truth of the matter is, these pictures were those of winter sports, the executive council, etc., which are never sent in until late, since they cannot be taken earlier. This is the usual case, and happens with each publication of the Hamiltonian. This is not, as Holley represented it, the fault of the editor or of his assistants. The implication then of laxity on the part of the editor is unsupported.

Another matter upon which Holley based his accusation of laxity was the supposed negligence of the circulation manager in not disposing of the Hamiltonians as he should have. The fact is that the matter was not within the control of the circulation manager at all. Rather, it was the fault of one of the members of the board, Robson, who within the last few weeks turned in, not the receipts from the sale of the books given to him, but rather 12 copies of the book. These books, had they been in the hands of the circulation manager last June, could have been disposed of. At present they have no cash value. The fact that they were not sold is not therefore the fault of the circulation manager, and the $48 loss which is involved should not have been credited to him by Holley in his report.

It is far from unusual for a class to pay a tax to support its Hamiltonian. These taxes vary from a minimum of one dollar for the 1925 book, to $20 for the class of 1922. When a class such as '26 has only about 50 members, any tax is likely to be large for the individual. There has been nothing to indicate that the deficit was irregular; the very questioning of whether or not the class should pay it is ridiculous. If a class repudiates a debt of its publication, who will undertake in the future the editorship of the Hamiltonian, which invariably loses money?

The only explanation is that personal feeling has colored the investigation. It has been throughout unfair if not actually insulting to the men who spent their time in preparing the book for the class.

Of course there will always be those who will mould their opinion to save six dollars. The only result of this unfortunate affair will be to provide the miserly with an objection to paying the tax. Let us hope that the majority of the class will realize that the repudiation of this debt would be a most unfair and most unsportsmanlike act.

I have perhaps been too ready to mention names in this letter, but I prefer to avoid the use of insinuation which has so characterized this investigation.

Sincerely yours,
B. FREDERIC SKINNER.

The Report

(This is the report which was read at the latest senior class meeting by Newell Holley, chairman of the investigating committee.)

Our committee has found that there has been no swindling or graft. The question is whether or not our class should stand behind poor management. Classes in the past have done so.

365 Hamiltonians were published. 10 copies were given away, 14 copies were not sold, and 5 more copies were paid for by checks which were not honored at their various banks. There were then 336 copies for which $1344 should have been received.

The money taken in by the Hamiltonian should be as follows:

From sale of books	$1344
From ads	291
From pictures	107
From fraternities	160
Total	$1902

The amount of money deposited at the Hayes Bank was $1834.07. There is no balance at the bank now. The total amount of the cancelled checks cashed on the Hayes Bank is $1794.80. The difference between this amount and the total deposits, which is $39.27, represents cancelled checks that were lost by the business manager. The business manager kept neither a bank cash book nor a stub account of the checks he drew, so there is no authentic list of the checks drawn.

If the total amount of the money received was $1902 and the total spent $1834.07, there would be a favorable balance of $67.93. However, there was not $1902 turned in because there are some copies which are unaccounted for by the circulation manager and also several of the ads included in the above figure were not collected by the business manager.

The present status of the Hamiltonian is that it has spent all of its money and that there are still two bills outstanding.

$127.55 to the Courier Press, Inc., in Clinton.

$253.35 to the Canton Engraving Co., including a $250 discount which is allowed if immediate payment is made.

The engraving bill is more than was expected because some of the material did not reach the engravers in time to benefit by certain discounts, and also because some additional pictures were inserted. The bill itself is however legitimate as Mr. Chase and Mr. Swartwout have checked over the Hamiltonian and find that the bill corresponds all right with the work done.

There are some accounts still owed to the Hamiltonian. These total to approximately $112 which will be collected at once. The final deficit of the Hamiltonian is then:

$380.90-$112.00 equals $268.90.

A class tax to cover this would have to be at least $5.50.

The Committee finds that the deficit of the Hamiltonian is due solely to poor managership.

1. The business manager failed to keep any books or records. As a result cash due to the Hamiltonian was uncollected and evidences of payments are lacking.
2. The circulation manager did not see to it that all the copies were sold.
3. The editor-in-chief and the staff did not get all of the material to the engravers promptly so as to benefit by the discounts.

BY INVITATION ONLY

On account of the small number of fraternities entertaining this weekend, it will be necessary to have closed dances on both Friday and Saturday evenings. Invitations for Friday night will be given individually to students by each fraternity entertaining, since no general invitations are to be issued.

COURT SQUAD LOSES ON FOREIGN FLOORS

Rochester Quintet Wallops Hamilton —Hobart Edges Out Victory

The Hamilton College court squad returned Sunday afternoon from a disastrous two day trip after dropping contests to Hobart and Rochester on Friday and Saturday nights respectively. The first match went to Hobart by a 36-31 count and the second to Rochester by a 41-15 score.

The Hobart match was closely contested throughout as the score indicates. In the initial period the Buff and Blue team fought on even terms with its opponents, the half ending 14-15 in favor of Hobart.

Shortly after the beginning of the second period, however, Howk was forced out of the match on personal fouls. Deubert, Hobart's sensational freshman forward, ran wild, registering several times to give his team a 10-point lead. Despite a rally in the last few minutes of play, Hamilton was unable to overcome the lead, the contest going to Hobart 36-31.

Normile featured for the Buff and Blue, getting the majority of the Hamilton points. Deubert of Hobart was the individual star of the match topping the scoring column with a total of nine field goals and one foul, for a total of 19 points.

In the Rochester contest on Saturday the Hamilton quint received their worst defeat of the season, The Yellow and Black outplayed the visitors in all parts of the game and clearly showed their right to be called one of the best court combinations in the east. Their defense was so tight that the Hill men registered from the floor but four times in the entire set-to. The first period ended with the score standing 18-5. In the second half Hamilton held the University to 20 points while they rang up 10, making the final score 41-15.

Apperman and Curtin, Rochester's stellar forwards, accounted for more than half of their team's points, getting 15 and 11 respectively.

FENCERS INAUGURATE SEASON WITH VICTORY

The Buff and Blue fencers won their first meet of the season Saturday afternoon at Syracuse defeating Syracuse University by a score of 11-6. With the exception of Captain Michels and Kutz, the team was inexperienced and the result gives promise of an excellent team.

In the foils, Bookhout, Dayton, and King managed to run up a 7-2 score over their opponents, Bookhout winning all three of his matches and the others taking two each. In the sabre and epee bouts the teams broke even, Hamilton and Syracuse both taking two bouts in each.

Rhodes did excellent work for Syracuse, defeating both Michels and Kutz with the sabres, while Bookhout starred for Hamilton. Most of the bouts were long drawn out, one foils bout taking 20 minutes. Both teams showed the effects of hard practice, although Syracuse used a different style of attack than that used by Hamilton.

Coach Gelas believes that with a little more practice and experience the team will be in excellent shape for the hard schedule which has been arranged. While the material of the team is good, only a few of the men have had any previous experience in meets. Last year's team had two years of experience to start with. However, under the able guidance of Coach Gelas, this year's varsity should be able to equal, if not better, the record made last year.

The fencing schedule for the rest of this season is as follows: Feb. 20, Cornell at Clinton; Feb. 26, M. I. T. at Clinton; Mar. 6, Columbia at New York; Mar. 12, Dartmouth at Clinton; Mar. 20, Semi-finals at West Point; Apr. 1-3, Intercollegiates at New York.

VILLARD WILL MAKE ADDRESS ON JOURNALISM

Pi Delta Epsilon Secures Noted Editor of Nation for Founders' Day Celebration

UNDERGRADUATES INVITED

Will Speak on Tendencies and Dangers of American Journalism

On Wednesday evening at 8:15 there will be given in the Chapel a lecture which promises to be one of the most interesting of the year. The subject is "American Journalism, Its Present Tendencies and Dangers." The speaker is Dr. Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of The Nation. Dr. Villard is brought here under the auspices of Pi Delta Epsilon, honorary collegiate journalism fraternity, in connection with the celebration of Founders' Day.

Villard was formerly the editor and owner of the Evening Post at the time when it was the foremost newspaper in New York City. In 1918 he dispensed with The Post to take over the ownership of The Nation, a liberal weekly magazine. At the present time he is considered to be the most prominent man in American journalism. He is well acquainted with the situation in this country, and particularly in New York City. At one time in his colorful career, Mr. Villard was professor of U. S. History at Harvard.

Mr. Villard's writings appear frequently in many current magazines, notably in Century, Harper's, and The Forum. His range of subjects is wide. A great deal of attention was given to his recent article in The Century, in which he attacked the privilege of the President to give interviews to newspaper men and at the same time withhold the permission to quote him directly. Aside from his magazine articles Mr. Villard is an author of considerable note. Among his books are "Germany Embattled," "Newspapers and Newspapermen," "Monographs on the Early History of Wall Street" and several others.

Noted as a witty, earnest, and very forceful speaker, Mr. Villard has given numerous lectures at colleges thruout the country. Politically he is an Independent and very progressive in his ideas. He was one of the supporters of Senator LaFollette in the recent campaign. The term "radical" has sometimes been applied to Mr. Villard. He is connected with the International Committee for Political Prisoners with such people as Jane Addams, Clarence Darrow, Eugene Debs and others of national note.

There will probably be a very large crowd at the lecture. Pi Delta Epsilon has sent out invitations to people of Utica and Clinton who will be interested, and the attendance from the Hill is expected to be very good.

NEW YORK TRIP AGAIN SCHEDULED FOR CHOIR

It has been definitely decided that the Hamilton College Choir will make a three day spring trip which will be similar in many ways to the four day trip made last year at the same time. The first engagement off the Hill will be the annual Utica concert to be held toward the end of the month about two weeks before the spring trip, while it is probable that there will be another out of town concert sometime near the middle of April.

The annual recital in Utica will be given in the First Presbyterian Church on Wednesday, Feb. 24, at 8:15 p. m. The program for the concert has not yet been announced by Prof. Fancher.

The first concert of the spring trip will be given on Saturday evening, Mar. 6, at Hartford, Conn. This is the Choir's initial recital in this city, and the concert has been arranged by Miss Mary Bulkley, president of the Women's League of Voters of Connecticut. The recital is under the auspices of the League.

The following day the choir goes to Bridgeport, where it appeared so successfully last year. The concert will be given on Sunday evening in the First Presbyterian Church of Bridgeport, where Rev. Alexander Alison, '96, is pastor. Although the building normally seats but 750, there was an audience of 1300 when the choir sang there last spring.

The choir's third engagement is an invitation recital at the Plymouth

THE COLLEGE STUDENT AND MILITARISM

(This is the first of a series of 12 signed editorials that are to appear in Life on subjects of pertinent interest to college students. Life will hold its columns open to any reader who wishes to voice an opinion on the subjects discussed in these editorials.)

It should be a matter of some self-congratulation, we believe, that Hamilton College is, and has long been, a member of a select group of higher institutions which have kept free from one of the most odious of present impositions: the compulsory military training of college men. "Old timers"—as "old timers" go in a shifting college community—may remember with little difficulty the S. A. T. C. days here: days when the campus bristled with khaki uniforms, and ringing efficiency, and many a dubiously muddy trench dug with a playful and naive "what if?" illusion. These days passed with fortunate rapidity, however, and Hamilton returned to itself. Not so in other colleges; for there came into being one of the first and most permanent of post-war curses, the R. O. T. C., an arbitrary military organization, as old in spirit as the Prussian war machine. At present this training corps has been placed in 226 high schools and colleges with an enrollment of at least 125,000 men. But its growth, happily, has been accomplished only over bitter protest, protest which records in heartening fashion a tendency of college men (who after all are most concerned) to think for themselves.

Cases which are not too numerous to mention array themselves against the objectionable means of our War Department to militarize American youth. It will be remembered that the editor of the Boston University "Beanpot" was dismissed for satirizing the R. O. T. C.; that a Brown University student was jailed for five days under "martial law" for deciding, on the basis of conscientious scruples, that he could not continue in an advanced course in military training; that students in Penn State and the University of California have been denied degrees for the same action. And, more recently, students, of C. C. N. Y. voted against military training 2,092 to 345, to the keen disappointment of the dean and the president of that college.

A few maxims, chosen from the "Manual of Military Training"—fortunately unfamiliar to most of us—may bring home that spirit of preparedness which we cursed with fervent unanimity in 1914, and which we see pervading our own nation today with unbelievable thoroughness:

"The object of all military training is to win battles."

"The inherent desire to fight and kill must be carefully watched for and encouraged by the instructor."

"The principles of sportsmanship and consideration for your opponent have no place in the practical application of this work."

If someone can tell us, calmly and without the provincial hysteria of most "nationalists," how a nation impregnated with these principles can avoid the militarism of Germany in 1914, then he will serve to allay our very natural fears. And yet—"There should be R. O. T. C. units in every college and high school," General Pershing informs us, despite consequences which are horribly obvious. And the popularizing of war—for the illusion of mere preparedness is flimsy enough—goes on.

This has not been accomplished, as we have observed, without protest. And yet to the keen discouragement of those who seek a new world of international peace, there is that in the attitude of college men today which is painfully fatalistic. It is not "a next war," but "The Next War," which already we seem to accept with finality. It is irrelevant that college men have voted 100,000 to 20,000 in favor of the World Court; in vain do scientists warn us of chemical warfare. We speak nebulously of this coming conflict, but we are nevertheless concerned definitely about it: whom will we fight? will the war reach us? and—fearful temerity in this thought!—will we go if it does? Can we in all conscience stalk forth to another war, as young men did in 1917, stirred emotionally by the trickery of propaganda which dealt in doubtful idealism and manufactured wrongs?

Before we do, there will be serious deliberation of the kind that tears men between two decisions: the relatively easy business of dropping into the ranks with the crowd and marching away in a blare of patriotism; and the infinitely harder and more courageous business of preserving one's convictions as an individual, of taking them if need be to jail. We cannot believe in view of the daily revelations of the machinery of the last war, that intelligent men can again be stampeded by such ugly means. And precisely at this point is the fiercest irony of all: that the intelligent man, the college man if you will, usually is the first to go, just as the flower of England was swept away in those first fall months 12 years ago. And Congress, and the backers of movements like the R. O. T. C., and college presidents who beam on both parties—these remain. It has always been thus; why are we to judge otherwise of the future? In the last conflict it was, as always, the older generation which sent the younger away; an older generation which matched the blood of a younger one against such all important cares as foreign capital, and politics, and "the safety of democracy."

Perhaps it is true that our instinct for war is as old as heredity. Perhaps, too, this instinct may be eliminated by the education to be found in such productions as "What Price Glory" and "The Big Parade." A touch of sentiment in each fails to lessen the essential horror of war. We who were not in the last slaughter, we who can learn the simple truth only from talking with untalkative participants, may ask justifiably: who won?

"On a gagne la guerre, mais on a perdu la paix."

GOING DOWN

Probably the most interesting item in the fraternity and college averages for the past three years, published elswhere in this issue of Life, is the fact that during this period the general college average has fallen practically one per cent each year. And, unless surface indications are all wrong, the mark of the hypothetical average student suffered an even greater drop during the first semester of the current year.

Superficially it would appear that one of two causes is to blame for this continued falling off in the college average. Either the undergraduates of Hamilton are less intelligent or less interested in their work today than they were three years ago, or the faculty is grading closer than it did three years ago.

It will be decidely interesting to note whether this fall will continue in the next two or three years, particularly when the clause in entrance requirements demanding a mark of 75% in regents examinations goes into effect.

ALUMNI BREAK EVEN ON COURT AND RINK

Varsity Basketeers Cop Victory While Puck-Chasers Lose

The Buff and Blue varsity quintet and sextet split their doubleheader with the Alumni here a week ago Saturday, copping the basketball game in the afternoon by a 36-31 score, and taking the short end of a 3-1 decision on the rink in the evening. This is the first time in several years that the Alumni and the varsity have met on the basketball court.

The graduate five under the leadership of Jack Hatch, captain of last year's varsity, started the game off with a rush. A field goal early in the game gave the Alumni a lead which they held throughout the entire period, though at times the varsity came close to heading them. The half ended with the alumni leading 14-12.

At the beginning of the second half the "grads" increased their lead thru the accurate shooting of Doane, '22, and Van Lawler, '20. The varsity seemed to have a hard time breaking through McGiffen's and Hamilton's defense for a time, but about the middle of the period they began to hit their stride and jumped into the lead which they held until the game ended 36-31 in favor of the varsity. In the last few minutes of play the Alumni came close to tying the score when Warren and Stern each sunk long shots. A couple of fouls and a field goal by Rowley sent the varsity into the lead again.

Doane, '22, was the star of the game. His uncanny basket shooting very nearly spelled defeat for the varsity players. The Hamilton guards seemed unable to stop him and he tossed in baskets from all angles, collecting a total of six field goals and three fouls. Van Lawler was second in scoring for the graduates with three field goals and a foul.

In the evening the Alumni hockey team amply avenged the defeat of the afternoon by beating the varsity sextet 3-1. The graduate team which was composed of the captains for the last five years and Harry Yates, one of last year's stars, gave the finest exhibition of hockey that has been seen on the local rink this year.

Yates and the two Thompson brothers, who made up the forward line, pierced the varsity defense time after time and were prevented from scoring only by sensational work on the part of the regulars' defense. The varsity offense on the other hand fought extremely hard to get through A. Kaiser and Bates, and at the times they did break through failed to score because of the excellent stops made by D. Reeder, '22.

The first goal came about the middle of the initial period when Bates pushed one through in a skirmish around the goal. Toward the end of the period the regulars evened up the count when McLean managed to edge a shot just inside the goal.

During the second period both teams tightened up on defense, so that neither scored. In the third period, however, the Alumni came back strong when J. Kaiser tallied, only to be followed a minute later with the final goal of the game by R. Thompson.

UNION SWAMPED UNDER 8-1 COUNT IN HOCKEY

Outskating, outshooting, and generally outplaying the Union sextet, Hamilton's hockey team buried the Garnet puck-chasers under an 8-1 score in the final game of the first s mester. Excepting the first period when each team tallied once, Hamilton held a decisive margin over the Schenectady outfit and the lead was never in danger.

In the later stages of the game, Hamilton flashed some of the form which has distinguished former Buff and Blue hockey teams, giving indications of a latent power which should make itself felt in the coming games. The Union victory marked Hamilton's third consecutive win over collegiate sextets this season.

Following the first stanza when the score was even, Hamilton marked three times in the second period and then added four goals in the final session. Van Vleet was easily the star of the game, scoring five of the winners' eight goals. Bald accounted for two scores while Heyl, a sophomore, broke into the scoring column with a single tally.

—Chester S. Lord, '73, Brooklyn, who was awarded the degree of Doctor of Laws here last June, has been married recently, according to advices received here.

This giant hydro-electric unit weighs 750 tons and consists of a vertical shaft hydraulic turbine attached to an electric generator delivering 52,000 kilowatts at 12,000 volts.

Bigger Generators—
Cheaper Electricity

A 70,000 horsepower hydro-electric unit recently installed at Niagara Falls utilizes the same amount of water as seven former 5,000-horsepower units, yet does the work of fourteen such units. And it saves 700,000 tons of coal yearly for the nation.

As more and still more uses are found for electricity, larger and more economical generators are installed. At the power plant, as well as at the consumer's end, important changes and startling developments have steadily reduced the cost of electricity for light, power, and heat.

And wherever electricity has blazed its trail—in towns, cities, industrial centers, and rural communities—comfort and progress have come to stay.

Generating and distributing electricity concern the technical student. But electricity's application in the betterment of industry, the professions, and home life concerns every educated person. Cheap electricity means many startling achievements today, but countless and unbelievable possibilities tomorrow.

The General Electric Company, as of December 3, 1924, had 37,716 stockholders, of whom 45 per cent were women. The average number of common shares held by stockholders was 55. In ownership, policies, past and present activities, G-E is unselfishly dedicated to the cause of electrical progress.

A new series of G-E advertisements showing what electricity is doing in many fields will be sent on request. Ask for booklet GEK-1.

Carpe Diem

What ought to be FAMOUS LAST WORDS:

Herr Doctor Bachmann: "No, no, I don't know what you got in the final. I burned your paper——Anyhow, you flunked below forty." The burglar tools are three counters to the left....

• • •

Who's Who, if any, in Ham. Coll.

On the left we have an alarmingly exact picture of Professor Coughlin who, after looking over this week's bank clearings at the Hayes National, will issue term bills shortly. Shake hands with the boys, Professor Coughlin.

• • •

What's this? What's this?

Dear Carp:

I take it that Irving Berlin's best comeback against his mean old father-in-law will be to refuse to accept any postal telegrams sent collect.

O. DE COLOGNE.

• • •

Carp's advice to freshmen who are going to the coming party: don't tell the little girl you'll marry her. Why don't you remain friends?

• • •

Dozen-word-fables

Some college boys have room-mates, and others buy their own neckties.

• • •

Carp observes with mixed glee and alarm that Swampy Marsh is back on the job leading chapel once a week. "Remember way back when" Swampy unwittingly sang a solo all by his lonesome last year? Dear, dear, how we old 'uns reminisce!!

The Big Baritone was in great form that morning:

"MAN T-HE LIFE B-OATSSSSSS ("s" as in catfish").

* * *

Carpe is deluged this week with letters from freshmen who, having managed to survive thus far, feel it incumbent upon them to suggest new ideas for the administration of the ollege. (As if Molly weren't doing a good enough job now!) But, "How," writes one slimer, "about a pepped up Sunday chapel? Like this:

"A Snappy sermon, and Eight other good acts."

* * *

BOY, BOY, WATCH ME CLIME ALL OVER THAT SAX!!

Advance blah on the visit of the Syracuse musical clubs states that some of the boys are "athletes as well as musicians!"

• • •

Rumor whispers in Carpe's ear that the esteemed Royal Gaboon is in financial difficulties.

Is Mr. Freeman in the house? Come, come, William, we simply must have an investigation of this! Sssshhhhhh, etc.

• • •

How about this for the next Y. M. C. A. movie?

From an ad of "In the Palace of the King":
5,000 people. 4,000 costumes.
No, you say it, George.

• • •

Carpe nominates this week to the Hall of Blame: Hulbert T. E. Beardsley, Jr., who has devised a way to keep an egg sandwich at Herr Merz' from leaking.

• • •

Second, in our estimation (and really, that is all that counts) for the above honor,was Adelbert E. Fradenburgh, who recently went into a movie show at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, at the same time leaving a call at the box office for 10 o'clock that night.

• • •

And third, perhaps, is the janitor of South who went to sleep over his boiler the other day so that now the boys have two kinds of water: cold and dirty.

Tie a tin to trouble

A TIDY red tin of Prince Albert, to be exact. There's the greatest little trouble-chaser in the known world. Smoke P. A. and pipe-grouches choose the nearest exit.

Yes, Sir, P. A. is right there with the Pollyanna stuff. Sunshine, gladness, the light heart, the bright smile. Because Prince Albert is the cheeriest, chummiest tobacco that ever tumbled into a briar or corncob.

Smoke P. A.—and smile. Cool, comfortable P. A. Fragrant, friendly P. A. Not a tongue-bite or throat-parch in a ton of it. The Prince Albert process hung the "No Admittance" sign on Bite and Parch the day the factory opened.

Get a tidy red tin of P. A. today and give pipe-worries the gate.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

SPEAKERS SELECTED FOR COMING DEBATES

Five Forensic Contests Arranged with One Date Pending

There will be five or possibly six debates held within the next two months between Hamilton and other colleges in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, and New York. The first debate will be with Williams College at Williamstown on Feb. 19. The question will be that which was debated here with Oxford last October: Resolved, That this house favors the recognition of the existing regime in Russia, and as before, Hamilton will take the negative. In this debate, however, the question will be considered from the standpoint of the United States only. Williams debated here last year, at which time Hamilton gained the decision.

This debate, as well as several others this year, will be decided by vote of the audience.

On the following day, Feb. 20, the Hamilton orators cope with the forensic skill of Columbia at New York City, on the same proposition, but upholding the affirmative. It was the original plan of the debate council to use the one team for these two debates, but it was found impossible to arrange to debate the same side of the proposition with both institutions.

The try-outs for debate held during examinations did not, in the opinion of the debate council, attract a representative number of undergraduates, due to the fact that many men were home for the mid-year vacation. The council therefore arbitrarily selected the teams which will meet Williams and Columbia, and will hold try-outs for the other debates within the week. The exact time will be announced in Chapel. The team selected to debate Williams consists of Bohn, '26, De La Fleur, '26, and Tyler, '27, while Chretien, '26, Schiro, '26, and Wilcox, '27, will meet Columbia.

Hamilton will meet Swarthmore on Mar. 5 at Clinton. This is the first time that Hamilton has debated the Pennsylvania institution and a return debate at Swarthmore for next year has already been arranged. The triangular debate between Hamilton, Lafayette, and Union is scheduled for Mar. 19. No agreement has been reached as to a proposition, although that used by the New England Conference—Resolved, that this house deplores the conditions of intercollegiate athletics in eastern colleges—is under discussion.

MYERS LECTURES ANNOUNCED

Dr. Grenfel, noted authority on Labrador, will deliver a Myers Lecture here on April 19, according to an announcement recently made by Dean Saunders. His subject has not been announced. Charles Upson Clark, who recently addressed the History Club on a subject dealing with present day conditions in Roumania, will also speak here under the auspices of the Myers Foundation on April 10. He will treat the general question of Immigration. Aside from these two addresses no definite ararngements have been made for the Myers lectures.

DR. FERRY TO SAIL

President Ferry will sail from New York, Saturday, Feb. 13, for New Orleans en route to Pasadena where he will attend the dinner of the California Alumni Association. From New southern route to California, making Orleans Dr. Ferry plans to follow a part of the trip by automobile.

The house party issue of the Royal Gaboon, scheduled to appear next Saturday afternoon, has been definitely cancelled. Temporary financial difficulties are stated to have prevented the issue. This does not mean, however, that the Gaboon will cease permanently, but that five numbers will be issued during the course of the year instead of the six that were planned upon. The business affairs of the magazine are expected to be settled in time for a number to be issued just before spring vacation. Available copy from the cancelled number will be held over until that time.

Theater, New York City, on the afternoon of Monday, Mar. 8. The choir owes this engagement to Alexander Woollcott, '09, under whose auspices the recital will be held. The revival of the famous play, "The Jest," is now playing at the Plymouth Theater, and Mr. Woollcott has made arrangements for the choir to use the setting of the first act of "The Jest" for the afternoon concert. This setting, designed by Robert Edmond Jones, is generally conceded to be one of the most beautiful and artistic settings ever used in this country.

On Monday evening the choir will give the fourth concert of the trip at the Washington Heights Baptist Church at 145th St. and Convent Ave. This is within a stone's throw of Alexander Hamilton's home. This recital has been arranged by Edgar F. Higgins, Jr.

An engagement in April to be held at the Kilburn Hall of the Eastman Theater, Rochester, is now pending, but no definite arrangements have been made as yet.

—John D. Fleischmann, ex-'25, was married Feb. 7 to Miss Frances Mac Pherson of Clinton.

—Justice W. W. Clark, '88, has been reappointed by Governor Smith as a member of the appellate division, fourth department. His term will run until Dec. 31, 1928. Justice Clark, who is president of the First National Bank of Wayland and resides in that town, received the degree of doctor of laws following his graduation from Hamilton.

HARVARD WINS EASILY

Last Wednesday night the Varsity skaters took an 11-1 beating from Harvard in the Boston Arena. For the first five minutes the Buff and Blue's offense was effective, and it looked as though the game would be very close. When they could not get through, the Hill six checked accurately, and at the end of the first period Harvard had scored but twice. With the start of the next third, however, Hamilton's strength began to diminish as group after group of fresh skaters of equal skill took the ice against them. In all, seventeen players were used by the winners, and they soon wore down the locals' energy.

Stanley played his usual clever game at goal. He blocked out no less than 40 shots, fired at him from all conceivable angles.
